

(1.) ethics is the yardstick which help us differentiate between right and wrong.

mention ethics based on morals and principles

As human we have right to say anything but by applying ethical standards, we get to know whether that was worthy of speaking or not. Our constitution guarantees us freedom of speech and expression under Art 19 but ethics of constitutions places restriction in the name of public morality, security of the nation etc.

this part is too long shorten it

In society, nuisance created by few individuals in the form of communalism, mob lynching are result of forgetting the ethics. Had they been guided by 1(b) Public life is guided by professional ethics, which one must adhere to.

The factors responsible for decline in public life :-

(I.) Materialistic lifestyle → leads to corruption.

→) India's rank in corruption perception index (85/145)

(II.) Individualistic connotation → decline in spirit of "Sena paramo dharma".

(III.) less accountability.

(IV.) More discretionary powers which puts one in crisis of conscience.

(V.) less transparency → decline in social audit mechanism.

In removing such evils, Gandhian thought always holds good corruption not seen as a social stigma meaning it has wider social acceptance reference. which speaks of:-

(I) Sarvodaya (Development of all) (Asst 30) welfare.

(II) Sevaraj (Not only from external powers but inner demons as well)

(III) Satyagraha (To hold on to truth)
eg IAS Ashok Khemka (transferred 51 times in 25 yrs)

(IV) Power to the last (oceanic circle)

(V) Spirit of service.

eg -> IAS Keerthi Jalli (2013 batch officer during floods in Assam).

Steps to improve public life:-

(I) Ensuring accountability

(II) Continuous checks and balances.

(III) Mid level training along with induction.

(IV) Inner motivation.

Hence all these things will help one in public life to do better.

Q(b). As per Carl Jung → Attitude is a predisposition to act in a certain way in some situation.

It has great influence in one's life. A bad attitude can prove hinderance in one's own development as well as in a place which one is a part of because:

(I.) It resists innovation.

(II.) Stops risk taking which is prerequisite to success.

(III.) If a leader is <sup>of</sup> bad attitude, it has a ripple effect on organisation as well. Can lead to:-

(a) corruption

(b) loss of spirit of service

(c) "Chalta hai" status quoism.

against particular person or thing mention how attitude is important for public servants for vulnerable section of the society can lead to reduction in work culture

However, when we have positive attitude, it can move mountains.

(1) It helps us stay motivated.

(2) It helps us resolving any actual or potential conflict of interest.

(3) It helps us one in motivating one's team members as well.

(4) It helps one deal with adverse situations.

Positive attitude, in addition for civil servants can help in navigating through the political pressure.

As Winston Churchill has said → "Attitude is a little things that makes a big difference, holds very true.

example of attitude has not been provided please incorporate as many examples in the ethics paper as possible

3 (a). Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely -

- Lord Acton

good use of the quote

This quote can't be more true for public servants as they hold great amount of power in their hands.

also they are the agents of change for a egalitarian society

Power as a means to public good!

(-) To ensure that service is getting delivered to the last mile.

(-) Manifesting the socio economic reforms

(-) Sometimes one's office is involved in evils such as corruption, that time, one <sup>(put servant)</sup> can use power constructively to mend their ways.

also there is a lack of their rights on public servants

However when power is used blatantly without any checks and balances can lead to more harm than good. It can lead to! - can give example of Hitler and Mussolini

- (o) low quality of work.
- (o) Underutilization and misutilization of funds.
- (o) Bureaucracy-politician nexus.
- (o) loss of dignity for vulnerable sections
- (o) Elitism in services.

criminalisation of politics

as well as nepotism and partisanship among the civil servants

eg → IAS = I am Superior

Hence power must be used constructively and every public servant must remember Gandhi's Tahsman while discharging their duties.

and <sup>is</sup> keen on finding solutions to them.

eg → IAS Prashant Nair → compassion
at Kozikode

(o) self manager → of his emotions.

(o) relationship manager: vis a vis his employees and bosses. (political).

Thus they command the respect of their team not only for being their boss but for being the person they are. Kiran Bedi IPS officer founded Navjyoti foundation where she would take her police officers too for learning yoga and other activities.

Hence emotional intelligence can help one achieve the things which seem otherwise impossible to others.

3(c) It was Socrates who proclaimed that knowledge is virtue and ignorance is vice. Hence one must try to be gain knowledge to be in the category of wise.

helps a individual in taking rational decision

We often see in society that if it is fools who create ruckus and wise remain silent. For eg:- evils like communalism, regionalism are all fanned by foolish people who forget the value of fraternity.

mention them to be a vice and against the ethos of nationalism

However is the silence of wise justified? As Napoleon says world is suffering not because of violence of few bad man but silence of few.

injustice and lack of empathy has crept deep in the heart of individuals

If our judiciary will stop reviewing laws of executive and legislature, that might lead to few bad laws.

vague point

It was silence and appeasement of France and Britain which led world to world-war I and II. Hence it was important for an organisation like UN to emerge.

it fanned Hitler emotions that he cannot be checked

Hence it must be our effort to be wise and speak out when needed.

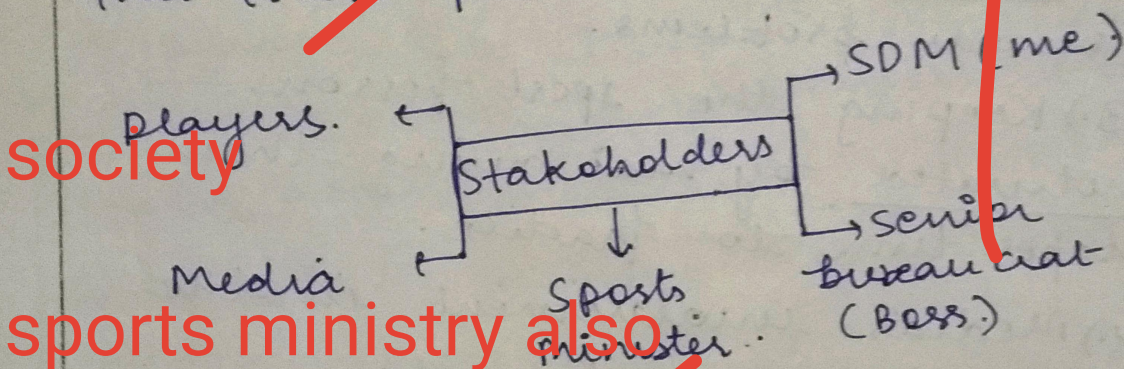

uphold then the spirit of "Satyameva Jayate" will be upheld. Otherwise there will be many Socrates' who will drink poison at the hands of fools.

Challenges in front of SDM (me) :-

(1) Maintaining the regularity of practice sessions.

sports are a important part of individual development

(2) Boss's nonchalant attitude towards problems.

(3) Keeping the sport persons motivated by mai. giving them proper time to practice.

(4) Media's involvement in the issue might escalate it.

this will result in crisis of consciousness

(5) Keeping your conscience shut since senior IAS asked you to be quite.

which ethical values is getting upheld and which are compromised have to be mentioned
